09:30 Buenos Aires, Brazil	15:30 Dar es Salaam, Nairobi, Istanbul	19:30 Hanoi, Bangkok, Jakarta
	17:30 Islamabad	20:30 Beijing

The global exchanges are sessions in which all countries can be connected at the same time throughout different time zones.

In spite of the challenges posed by the global pandemic, a number of countries have been able to release new statistics on poverty measurement throughout 2020 and 2021. In this session we explore their challenges and lessons learned. At the same time, there are countries which have implemented innovative approaches to produce good information in times of COVID, overcoming important barriers. These challenges may include political challenges due to poverty increases. By looking at these cases, we expect to have a rich exchange not only between the countries presenting their results, but with the rest of the participants.

Global exchange: discussion groups

One of the unique features of the MPPN is that in its different meetings and fora, it provides a space for policymakers across the world to discuss their experiences and lessons learned. In this spirit, we will now break into small groups to discuss the challenges of multidimensional poverty measurement and reduction in the context of the global pandemic.

Small group discussion: 30 minutes

Guiding questions:

1. What did you find interesting from the presentations and what would you like to learn more about?
2. What challenges did your country/organisation face in measuring poverty during the pandemic? How were these addressed?
3. What are your country's/institution's plans for measuring and reducing poverty in the months to come?
4. What innovative aspects of measuring and reducing multidimensional poverty would you like to see implemented in your country/institution?
